

WANTED - ANALYST - MANAGEMENT CON- SULTING

WHAT YOU WILL DO?

You will enrich our team as a Management Consultant working on various topics - mostly with functional, financial, and technical aspects.

You will learn quickly how to define goals, strategy and requirements - manage projects and clients relations. You will work in teams of 3 – 5 consultants being responsible for gathering, structuring and analyzing information.

You will define and implement solutions in collaboration with clients, gaining and developing hard and soft skills. And build on your strengths and the values we share - most importantly, all in a value-driven, respectful, friendly and professional environment. LKPU consultants acquire skills and experience rapidly, grow and feel good about it.

WHAT LKPU WILL DO FOR YOU?

LKPU will teach you to master all aspects of Management Consulting while working with motivated, disciplined, skilled and accomplished people.

We will support you to create your own path building on your areas of interest and expertise, to make an impact from day one. At LKPU you will be guided and coached by our managing partners enjoying the benefits of an innovative boutique consultancy.

We believe that the success of our work is based on transparency, integrity, efficiency, collaboration and respect. Therefore, you will not be assigned to do non-business relevant work, have endless and senseless meetings, or be fenced off the important decisions. We will work with you on a level playing field.

YOUR QUALIFICA- TIONS?

Tick the boxes and reach out!

- You have Master's degree or PhD with an outstanding record of academic achievements
- You are self-motivated and disciplined
- You are curious about your life, your job and the universe around you
- You are an outstanding team player with respective manner and spirit
- You treat everyone and everything around you with respect
- You are a great listener with outstanding English and German communication skills (any additional language is a strong plus)
- You love and do sports and know how to balance your body and soul
- You do not lose your sense of humor when it gets tough

